Police Try To Piece Comic Narcotics Yarn

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Officers pieced together, bit by bit, the story today of a fouled-up narcotics operation that turned comic.

The yarn, with officers from San Antonio to Hillsboro contributing, involved a twin-engined Lockheed Lodestar with what the Department of Public Safety estimated was 2,500 pounds of marijuana aboard.

How it got to Cameron in Central Texas at dawn hadn't been fully explained at a late hour, but that seems to be where the story became public.

It started, said Hearne Police Chief R. L. Perkins, with a telephone call from a man who said he was U.S. Customs Agent Burk.

The man said he was in a government plane when he was overpowered by three men and his plane commandeered and flown away.

But Bill Cochran, a spokesman for the U.S. Customs Service at San Antonio, said no agent was aboard. This opened several possibilities—one that someone with an interest in the marijuana had been dumped at the small Cameron airstrip and was not going to allow any confederates get away with the weed.

Not long thereafter, the plane landed at Hillsboro in North Central Texas. Airport managed Ed Schronk said two men alighted and were picked up by two men in a blue Camaro. The car headed toward Dallas.

Meanwhile, McLennan County officers at McGregor let out a great cry, "We're floating in marijuana."

The marijuana was on the McGregor airstrip which officers said was "covered" with the plant.

A Department of Public Safety officer said in Waco that the marijuana had been dumped at McGregor. Officers said it apparently was a touch-and-go landing, with a pause only long enough to get rid of the evidence.

Police Hire Attorney; Judge Considers Next Step

By BETTY JEAN CLAY
City Editor

Corsicana City Judge Fred Upchurch is considering the alternatives open to him today after holding Police Chief Don Massey in contempt of court for failure to execute an order of the court in another contempt case involving a police officer.

At the same time, Chief Massey is not making any further statements in the matter on the advice of legal counsel he employed shortly after returning to Corsicana early Wednesday from out of state.

Chief Massey arrived back in town around 5 a.m. today from an emergency trip to bring his daughter home from Memphis, Tenn.

He had been directed, Judge Upchurch said Monday, to effect collection of a $25 fine imposed by the judge on Officer Ernest Camp for contempt of his court earlier or jail the policeman until his fine is paid. Chief Massey, in revealing the courtroom by-play Monday to the press, confirmed that he had refused to jail the officer until the judge himself paid a traffic ticket given to him back in February and had at that point been held in contempt and fined $50.

When contacted in his office at police headquarters Wednesday, Chief Massey related he had developed car trouble which delayed his return arrival until 5 a.m. today.

Asked "what's the next step?" in the Camp case, Chief Massey responded: The lawyer told me not to make any more statements about it." Pressed for clarification, Chief Massey said he and Officer Camp had retained Attorney Julius Jacobs earlier in the morning before being contacted by a reporter and had nothing further to say in compliance with advice from his attorney.

Contacted in his city hall court, Judge Upchurch said under the laws of Texas several recourses are open to him if Chief Massey "willfully refuses to carry out the orders of this court," adding that he is studying them and hasn't decided at this point what action he will take.

He pointed out that under the law, in contempt of court cases, the judge of a court has the authority to issue a capias requiring the arrest of a person specified and this can be given to any sheriff, deputy, constable, Department of Public Safety officer, or policeman in the state to execute. Or, he noted, a judge can designate a private citizen as a special officer of the court to effect an arrest upon issuance of a capias.

Judge Upchurch said there is a point some people seem to have forgotten in this controversy which he deplored being publicized in the press, and that is the injunction from the 13th District Court stemming from Upchurch's arrest earlier this year by Corsicana police for DWI.

Referring to a copy of the injunction order, Judge Upchurch read aloud excerpts that the injunction "enjoins the Mayor and City Commission, all their agents and servants and employes from harassing, prohibiting from or interfering with the city judge in the discharge of the duties of his office."

Although Chief Massey is not named specifically in the injunction, he is an agent of the City Commission as a city employe, Judge Upchurch pointed out.

Judge Upchurch said it will be up to the district court to ascertain if the terms of this injunction have been violated. It is conceivable that the district court could hold city officials of Corsicana in contempt of court if this became a point of issue.

Asked specifically if he contemplated making this an issue connected with the injunction, Judge Upchurch said he was merely pointing out to the reporter other possibilities that exist.

"And, too, the District Judge is still on vacation, it's my understanding," he commented.

"I haven't decided yet what I will do, there are several alternatives to consider," he said.

Jesus '72

The youth of Westside Baptist Church with the support of local businesses are sponsoring "Jesus 72" from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday at Jester Park. "Jesus 72," somewhat similar to Explo 72 held in Dallas a few weeks ago, is designed to promote Corsicana churches. The all-day event will include guest speakers from surrounding counties and local ministers. Also included on the agenda will be singing provided by out of town religious rock groups. Second Man Found Guilty in Malone Murder

WACO, Tex. (AP) — The second of three men to stand trial for the murder of Malone City Marshal Milton Boortz a year ago was sentenced to life imprisonment Wednesday.

Benny Walker, 22, was found guilty by the jury Wednesday afternoon at Judge Carl C. Anderson's 54th district court, and two hours later Walker was given the life sentenced.

Last week, Willard G. Christopher, 22, was assessed 90 years in the penitentiary after pleading guilty.

The last of the three originally charged in the case, James W. Hughes, 31, remains to be tried. All three men are from Dallas.

Marshal Boortz was shot to death March 25, 1971, shortly after the robbery of a liquor store in Malone.

Before both sides rested their cases Wednesday, Texas Ranger Bill Gunn read into the record a statement the state said was made by Walker.

According to the statement, Walker was approached by two men seeking help in robbing a store. The statement said the three checked several places before deciding on Herman's liquor store, where they got $700.

McGary Says

Ruling Not Based on Issue

The ruling by State Education Commissioner J.W. Edgar against a plea by Corsicana Dr. L. E. McGary was based on "lack of substantial equity damage" to McGary's son, Richard, who was given a zero for a homework assignment, Dr. McGary told The Daily Sun after the hearing Tuesday in Austin.

McGary's attorney, Bill McKie of Corsicana, said the ruling will be appealed to the 21-member State Board of Education.

Richard was suspended Monday and Tuesday, May 8-9 of this year, after a girl called her mother from Galveston and said students on a high school field trip had been drinking at their hotel there.

His teacher, Mrs. Mary Ann Anderson, refused to accept a homework assignment due the day after the two-day suspension but assigned during the suspension period.

Dr. Edgar said there just wasn't any point in ruling against the action of the teacher because there was no major damage to Richard; his term grade was only slightly lower, and he did graduate, Dr. McGary told The Sun. "But what I wanted was a ruling of right or wrong on the issue. It is a principle at stake, I feel."

According to the Associated Press account of Tuesday morning's hearing, Mrs. Anderson assigned an English theme on Tuesday to be turned in on Wednesday.

She said Richard tried to turn in the paper Wednesday—although it had been assigned while he was suspended—and she refused to accept it. "He offered me his paper, and I thought he was kidding," Mrs. Anderson said. "He had called me the first day he was suspended to ask me what we were doing in class, and I said, 'you know you can't make up the work."

She quoted Richard as replying, "I know that, but I wanted to keep up with the reading."

Mrs. Anderson said she understood the school policy to be that a pupil has "no right to make up work missed because of an unexcused absence."

The zero, she said, probably changed the grade for Richard by only a single point out of a possible 100 for the year and maybe two points for the semester, and that he graduated from high school in May.

The school board affirmed Mrs. Anderson's action, and McGary appealed to Edgar.

He contended Mrs. Anderson acted on a "vague, unwritten and alleged rule," and he labeled her action "negative academic discipline to a bahavior problem."

He said by refusing to accept Richard's theme on Wednesday she was, in effect, penalizing him an extra day because he could not take part in the class that day either.

Gladney said to allow McGary to turn in the paper would "in a sense be rewarding a student who for disciplinary reasons has been suspended. This would be contrary to all teaching principles.

"An inherent rule of schools as far as suspension is concerned is that there is some form of punishment. To allow him to turn in the paper would be rewarding him for staying away from school."

McKie said 25 other pupils who had made the Galveston field trip also had been suspended from school, but their suspensions came during an exam period from which they were exempt because of high grades.

"Is it fair and is it a proper rule, that a student is not allowed to do his homework and participate in class?" McKie asked. "These matters can affect the entire course of a student's college education— by luck."

Edgar, ruling immediately after both sides presented their arguments, said he felt that Mrs. Anderson "acted rather routinely" on a rule "she understood to be in effect."

Kerens Citizens Grill Telephone Men on Local ServiceProblems

By GARY EDMONDSON
Golden Circle Editor

KERENS — Residents here grilled three representatives of the Gulf States United Telephone Company Thursday night during a public hearing on the problem of the telephone service in Kerens.

A crowd of nearly 30 forced the council from its regular meeting room into a more spacious lobby where Mayor Stoner Baker turned the people loose on the telephone men with the advice, "We can't accomplish one thing with noise."

Robert Taylor, public relations director for the phone company, told the gathering he might answer "quite a few questions before you ask them" and proceeded to explain some of the company's past construction and future plans for the Kerens area.

Plans include extending service into the Goodnight community during the first quarter of 1973, installing a cable into the northern part of Kerens next year and extending service to the western edge of Gulf State's area. In 1974 the company plans to put a new cable into the Bazette area and the south part of Kerens. Gulf State will spend over $100,000 in 1975 extending service south on FM Road 309, Taylor said.

Taylor's remarks were cut short when Kenneth Ray asked, "What about now?" Ray told Taylor his biggest complaint is that toll calls get cut off.

Taylor asked if this had happened this week, and Ray replied that it has happened "every week for the past year-and-a-half."

Ray has been cut off as many as four times while trying to talk long distance. Ray added that Thursday morning he received a long distance call and that he and the other party "had to shout at each other."

At this point, J.D. Bennett, district manager from Athens, interjected that when long distance calls are cut off during the course of a conversation the problem could be anywhere along the line.

This statement brought Larry Freeman to his feet to counter by saying on local calls the dialer hears the phone "ring and ring" though further investigation shows the people being called were at home and the phone never rang. Wilson Price quickly added "a fourth of the time we can't use our phone, and half the time we can't dial."

Dr. H.W. Hoffer reported similar trouble, telling the phone company representatives of numerous times patients have told him they tried to call him and heard the phone ring but got no answer at times when he was at home. He added that he tried to call one man all week before finally reaching him Thursday morning.

Can Postal Staff and Mail Delivery Time Both Be Cut?

By SAM PENDERGRAST
Editor of The Sun

A seemingly contradictory story appeared on the front page of The Daily Sun Friday, noting that five employes have been ordered cut from the staff of the Corsicana Post Office and maintaining that mail delivery will be sped up at the same time.

How can you speed delivery of a service—in this case, mail—by decreasing the number of people performing it? And is the reduction in staff a reasonable economy measure by a private postal corporation no longer boasting carte blanche at the federal trough, a subtle but significant downgrading of a local institution whose stature has been both a cause and an effect of the city's influence beyond the mere size of its population, or both?

There is more here than the casual, cheeful tone of Friday's Post Office press release from Dallas Regional Postmaster Carl Ulsaker indicated.

Handling of mail will be faster, Corsicana Postmaster William C. Galloway assured The Daily Sun Tuesday.

The new "area mail processing center" in Dallas, which will handle all outgoing mail from Corsicana, can process 46,000 pieces of mail per hour, a rate capable of supporting the over-all Post Office goal of next-day delivery for 95 per cent of all mail within the Dallas area of which Corsicana is a near-southernmost point.

"There will be no dispatching, as such, from here for outgoing mail," Galloway said. "All uncanceled items—what we call 'raw mail'—will be dumped into the pouch and sent to Dallas" for handling by the high-speed equipment. Outgoing mail accounts for about two-thirds of the total mail load here, he said.

Incoming mail will continue to be processed here, he said, and it is expected that "about an hour" can be cut off the arrival time in the morning, which is now about 7:15 a.m.

Galloway noted the postal service is very near its 95 per cent goal for next-day delivery now, as indicated by a random check called "ODIS" ("Origination and Destination Information System") in which arrival and departure times are carefully recorded and compared in Washington and regional centers.

Furthermore, he says, the goal of next-day delivery for 95 per cent of airmail items within a 600-mile radius is also being approached, and the aim is to provide two-day delivery throughout the United States for airmail.

The consolidation affects Corsicana and all other post offices in what has been called the "Mesquite Sectional Center," which will be phased out along with another sectional center now operating at Richardson. Fort Worth was included in the Mesquite Center, but it will continue to process much of its own mail, Galloway surmised.

The changes are being instituted in the wake of a survey made here by postal authorities about a month ago.

The new system will not affect local delivery of mail at all, Galloway noted, except for the probably earlier availability of mail private boxes at the Post Office.

It will affect—dramatically, in some cases—both the work load of some staff members and the appearance of much mail originating in Corsicana.

A.W. (Wayne) Norris, formerly assistant postmaster here and a "fixture" of the local scene by such activities as his membership on the Civil Service Commission, has already taken up duties as the "officer in charge" at Malakoff — a title that usually precedes appointment as "acting postmaster" and, possibly, "postmaster."

Galloway noted, in passing, that postal appointments have been removed from the political arena, with the exception of the man at the top, currently Postmaster General E.T. Klassen, by setting up a national governing board that makes appointments on non-political criteria.

Norris was in his 32nd year at the local Post Office, just some six months short of Galloway's tenure.

Also to depart, but unassigned as yet, is Assistant Superintendent of Mails Joe B. Fogg, who is another 31-year local veteran, and three postal clerks. The cut will leave 40 employes on the local staff.

Galloway said the exact three clerks whose jobs will be abolished have not been determined yet although he has made recommendations. All will be offered opportunities to accept reassignment, and The Daily Sun's visit to the Postmaster's office Tuesday interrupted telephone negotiations aimed at lining up possible positions elsewhere.

The positions of assistant postmaster and assistant superintendent of mails will also be abolished, Galloway said, and he and the superintendent of mails will assume duties formerly assigned to those officials.

Galloway, for instance, will take over the statistical work of Norris, involving massive record-keeping about mail volume and handling efficiency, in addition to his own former duties dealing with administration and financial matters.

As to "appearance," the principal change will be the loss of identity for most outgoing mail, which will no longer carry the Corsicana postmark including the zipcode of 75110 but will be marked, instead, "U.S. Postal Service, 752," the identification of the Dallas Sectional Center.

"We will have one (mail) drop marked 'Local Cancellation Only,' " Galloway said, and it will be particularly important for that drop to be used by anyone who wants a Corsicana postmark on his outgoing mail.

"If somebody makes a mistake and puts Corsicana mail in the (regular) outgoing box, it will be sent to Dallas, so it's important that our customers separate their outgoing mail," he said, "and it is also important that they discontinue the use of the word 'City' on local mail, because when it goes to Dallas it loses its identity."

At best, there are some incongruities in the "sectional center facilities concept," the Postmaster admitted, explaining that some post offices on sectional borderlines will have their mail delivered through circuitous routes.

Hubbard mail, for instance, will go originally to the new sectional center that went into effect in Waco Monday. Thus, a letter from Hubbard to Corsicana will be sent to Waco, then to Dallas, and finally to Corsicana. But Galloway emphasized that next-day delivery still pertains—"if we make all of our transportation connections".

"And there hasn't been any Waco-to-Corsicana mail in years," he added.

In a way, the unusually large Post Office in Corsicana is a kind of monument to the enormous volume of mail to and from Collin Street Bakery, which sells by mail order and annually ships some three million pounds of packaged "De Luxe" fruitcakes all over the world. What effect will the postal reorganization have on the bakery's mail-oriented operation?

"Probably not very much," according to Vice-President Norman E. Shaw, who reminded The Daily Sun "what we've done in the past is take all major shipments (of the finished cakes) to Fort Worth—all we send out of here is special delivery and airmail."

The bakery maintains a New York City postmark capability and ships pre-marked packages to New York by the truckload for dissemination throughout the world, but the Corsicana Post Office is credited with the load statistically.

"We would hate to see them (the Post Office) cut down on service, but, at the same time, in our estimation, we've got to keep the costs down...", Shaw said. He recalled recent "tremendous" increases in postal rates for first class, third class and parcel post mail, adding "so we're glad to see that they're tightening their belt."

Shaw added, however, "Now, we've been impressed with the new attitude of the Post Office. The assistant postmaster general was in Dallas a year ago, and we met with him, and the over-all attitude seems to be a tone of increased service."

He said he only hopes "they can keep it all in balance—give better service and keep the price down too," but he added, "We're much impressed with their desire to do a better job."

Doctors Don't Rule Out Heart Attack Possibility for LBJ

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Doctors apparently have not ruled out the possibility that former President Lyndon B. Johnson may have had a heart attack Monday, but officials said there is no evidence that he suffered a major seizure.

Johnson, who had a heart attack in 1955 and again only last April, was flown to the Army's Brooke General Hospital here Monday night with chest pains and nausea.

"While there is at this time no evidence of a major severe heart attack of the sort he experienced in April, 1972, an additional period of observation in the hospital is indicated," spokesmen said Tuesday afternoon. There was no elaboration on this point.

The former President spent a comfortable night Monday "without recurrence of severe chest pain and nausea," officials said.

They said his electrocardiogram "remains stable and his heart rhytym regular."

Last April, a brief burst of rapid heart action brought Johnson's personal heart specialist, Dr. J. Willis Hurst, here from his home in Atlanta, Ga., while Johnson was undergroing treatment for his heart attack.

Hurst is being kept informed of Johnson's condition by telephone, the hospital reported, adding: "He may visit later but there is no urgency under the present circumstances."

Johnson, who turns 64 next month, is under treatment in a two-bedroom penthouse hospital suit that is his at a moment's notice since he is a former President.

House Committee Expected To Approve Anti-Busing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee is expected to approve a strong antibusing bill today despite a roadblock thrown up by a civil-rights leader.

Clarence Mitchell, a veteran lobbyist for the NAACP, kept the Education and Labor Committee from acting Tuesday by spending all day in the witness chair attacking the proposed legislation.

Mitchell said Congress is acting like a lynch mob in its rush to ban busing and is undercutting the courts by trying to limit their powers to order busing in desegregation cases.

Several test votes Tuesday indicated supporters of the bill have a majority on the committee.

The bill, based on one sent to Congress by President Nixon last March, would prohibit any crosstown busing for elementary school children and sharply limit its use in higher grades.

Feed Grain Totals Rise 35 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says stocks of the four feed grains— corn, oats, barley and sorghum— on July 1 totaled 81.7 million tons, 35 per cent more than a year ago.

Feed grain consumption in April through June totaled 44 million tons, 17 per cent more than for the same quarter in 1971.

Corn stocks on July 1 totaled 2,176 million bushels, 39 per cent more than a year ago.

There were 549 million bushels of oats on July 1, a record high for the date, exceeding the previous record of a year earlier by 7 per cent.

Growing British Strike Disrupts Buses, Airlines

LONDON (AP) — The growing strike wave against the Conservative government's new labor law hit the London bus system and Heathrow Airport today, taking most of the double-deck red buses off the city's streets and canceling many flights to the Continent.

The Official Solicitor, an independent watchdog for the legal system or sort of ombudsman, was to appear before the Industrial Relations Court today to ask for the release of the five longshoremen whose imprisonment last Friday touched off the strike wave. But there was no indication whether the court would free the men, whom it held in contempt because they defied its order to stop illegal picketing.

The five men are the first jailed under the antistrike law which Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservatives pushed through Parliament last year, and the strike wave in support of them has turned into a drive to nullify the law.

More than 300,000 workers were estimated on strike, and the engineering workers' union ordered its 1.5 million members to down their tools next Monday for 24 hours. The general council of the Trades Union Congress, the governing body of British trade unions, called a meeting to consider demands for a one-day general strike on Monday.

In London, 24,000 transport workers went out until midnight, forcing bus passengers into the subways, taxis, private cars or onto the sidewalks. There were 3,000 ground workers out at Heathrow, national newspapers did not publish for the fourth day, and a strike of brewery men threatened the city with a beer ~~shortage.~~

London has been without fresh ~~meat,~~ fruit and vegetables for two days, since market porters walked out. All ports in the nation were closed by the strike of 50,000 longshoremen and thousands of other workers.

South Viet Troops Advancing in Quang Tri Citadel

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers were reported today to have seized half the Quang Tri Citadel and were advancing on North Vietnamese troops in the rest of the 19th century fortress.

"Most of the enemy are concentrated in the northwest section of the Citadel," said Lt. Col. Do Dang Bo, the Army spokesman in Hue.

The South Vietnamese command in Saigon backed off from its claim Tuesday that the paratroopers had completely reoccupied the 50-acre walled compound.

South Vietnamese bombers were attacking the North Vietnamese positions inside the Citadel with high explosive bombs and napalm, but Bo said there were no signs that the North Vietnamese were retreating. He described the action as sporadic, small contact in "section by section" of the Citadel.

Fighting erupted, meanwhile, behind the Quang Tri front, on the western flanks of Hue and farther south in the Que Son Valley, 25 miles below Da Nang.

Three South Vietnamese positions defending the western approaches to Hue were hit with 3,300 rounds of shellfire and ground assaults. South Vietnamese spokesmen claimed 229 North Vietnamese troops killed on the northern front Tuesday and today and said South Vietnamese losses were 21 killed and 140 wounded.

Irish Protestants Walk off Jobs To Mourn IRA Victims

BELFAST (AP) — Thousands of Protestant workers walked off their jobs this morning to observe "a day of mourning" for victims of Irish Republican Army violence in Northern Ireland.

The work stoppage shut many offices and factories but did not paralyze the city because it did not affect such essential services as electric power or public transport.

The day of mourning was specifically designated as a tribute to the victims of last Friday's bomb blitz in Belfast, but also was called in remembrance of all who died through Irish Republican Army violence in the three years of sectarian strife.

British troops bulldozed into another Roman Catholic stronghold in Belfast to smash IRA barricades. They claimed their seizures of the guerrillas' arms had cut their operations in half.

State Hearing City Disposal Request

Hearings were held today in Austin by the Texas Water Quality Board on applications of several cities, including Corsicana, for modifications of their disposal plant effluent discharge permits.

Corsicana has applied to amend its existing permit from 1.55 million gallons of effluent discharge daily to 3.5 million in preparation for the day the city's disposal plant is revamped and enlarged to a treating capacity of 3.5 mgd. The city has been ordered by the Texas Water Quality Board to improve its plant to bring it into state compliance with stream anti-pollution requirements, and has the consulting engineering firm of Forrest & Cotton, Inc., drawing up final plans and specifications now for the project.

Willard Davis, city utilities director, and Don McIlyar of Forrest & Cotton were in Austin to attend the Water Quality Board hearings which began at 9 a.m.

Before leaving here, Davis related that Corsicana had been notified by the TWQB that the board's staff will submit its report and recommendations on all pending applications on Wednesday's agenda and that cities such as Corsicana should submit any support evidence at the hearings.

Davis anticipated no difficulty in Corsicana getting its discharge permit amended. McIlyar, as an engineer with the firm which designed for Corsicana the enlargement of the treatment plant and revampment of existing plant facilities, was to "answer any technical questions" posed by the TWQB.

Davis said a decision would be rendered following the day's hearings Wednesday. He will not return home until Friday, however, as he will attend another meeting, an Environmental Manpower Conference Thursday in Austin.

It will be sponsored by the water quality board, the Governor's Office and federal Manpower agency on planning connection with environmental protection. The federal government has a funding program whereby it pays the salary of additional manpower hired by municipalities working in water and sewage treatment for stream pollution control.

Richland Reunion Scheduled Sunday

RICHLAND—Former students of the Richland school will hold their school reunion at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at Jester Park in Corsicana. A noon lunch and program is planned for the event, and reservations costing $1.50 each can be obtained by either contacting Ethel Brown at Corsicana National Bank or Jackie Williams at 874-5393.

Distance Between Them

In 1893, a new baseball rule established the distance between the pitcher and home plate at 60 feet, 6 inches. This distance has remained the same up to the present time.

Brewers Hosts Family Reunion at Lake Home

Descendants of the late Marshal McCaslin of Eureka held their annual reunion July 22 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O.O. Brewer at Cedar Creek Lake.

Attending from Corsicana were Mrs. Marshal McCaslin, Mr. and Mrs. Marshal McCaslin, Jr., and Diane and Danny, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Thompson, Mrs. Vera Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wheat and Belinda and Virgil II, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Forman.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boyd and Corkey, Kim, Buddy and Kameela of Ennis, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Bower and Michelle and Melanie of Longview, Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Lockmiller and Marsha, Renica and Chrystal Kay of Wilmer and Dorenda Parish of Fort Worth.

World's oldest Christian church is Qal'at es Salihige in eastern Syria, dating from A.D. 232.

Suspect

Michael David Sanders, 19, accused of killing a young husband and wife from Massachusetts around July 16, was brought before a police lineup Tuesday night in Austin. Authorities would not comment on the results of the lineup. (AP Wirephoto)

Ennis To Host TRA Members

ENNIS — City officials and the Ennis Chamber of Commerce will serve as joint hosts for a Thursday luncheon for members of the Trinity River Authority, Environmental Protection Agency and Corps of Engineers. The luncheon, slated to begin at 11:45, will be held at the Ennis water treatment facility, where the guests will arrive by helicopter from Fort Worth.

Among the entourage who will tour the water treatment plant will be Arthur W. Busch, Region VI administrator of the EPA; Paul Comola, also of the EPA; David Brune, Jim Strawn and L.C. Carlton of the TRA; and members of the corps of engineers from Dallas and Ennis.

Expected to attend as hosts of the event are members of the Ennis city commission, chamber of commerce members, City Attorney Billy Colvin, City Manager Kerry Sweatt and other city employees.

Also on hand will be a representative of the Corsicana Sun and other members of the press.

After touring the Ennis facility, the EPA and TRA officials will continue a downstream tour of the Trinity basin to Livingston, with their first stop after Ennis scheduled to come at the Navarro Mills Reservoir. The trip will be a two-day affair.

Homeowners Appeal City Fence-Building Ruling

Two homeowners have appealed denials by City Building Official Delma Ware of permission to erect side yard fences in variance with regulations and will receive a hearing of their appeal by the City Zoning Board of Adjustment and Appeals.

The hearing is scheduled at 2 p.m. Aug. 9 at city hall for Gary Pillans, 318 Forrest Lane, and Robert C. Mauer, 901 Red Oak Lane, said Ware.

Both were denied permission to construct side yard lots on their outer lot lines by Ware as not being in compliance with the comprehensive zoning ordinance. Sec. 15-101, Sub-Section B, stipulates no fence, screen or wall may be erected unless set back 15 feet from the property corner of both streets (at an intersection).

Both want to build fences nearer the street than the required 15 feet set-back and are requesting an exception to the provision, Ware said.

The only appeal from a decision of the City Zoning Board of Adjustment is directly to the district court. Appeals to other city appointive boards are made first to City Commission, and if any appeal from a City Commission ruling is sought, then it is to the courts. Ware pointed out that the board of adjustment is the only board that has no appeal process to the City Commission.

The sideyard set-back requirements for construction of homes and of fences are new requirements in the new comprehensive zoning ordinance adopted in March, 1971.

Lane Named Lilly Head

Claude M. Lane, former Corsicana resident, has recently been elected president of Lilly Sales Co., Inc., succeeding the founder, Adrian Hudson of Greenville.

The company specializes in institutional foods, both canned and frozen, plus a full line of institutional supplies and paper goods, serving schools, hospitals, nursing homes and restaurants.

CLAUDE LANE
...President

The company, a multi-million dollar organization in annual sales, according to company spokesmen, presently operates sales offices and warehouses in Mineola and Longview and has recently consolidated a former operation at Commerce with an enlarged facility at Mineola.

Lane also was elected vice-president of Nor-Tex Equipment Co., a wholly owned subsidiary corporation of Lilly Sales Co., Inc. He has been employed by Lilly for three years, beginning as a salesman, then sales manager, general manager and now as president.

Lane served on the Corsicana City Commission in the mid-1960s. He continues to participate in civic and fraternal organizations.

Married to the former Janie Andrews of Roane, they are parents of four children.

In announcing the promotion, Founder Hudson, now board chairman, said: "We are proud to have a new chief executive with the energy and dynamic leadership that Lane possesses."

Spencer Graduates Police Academy

Houston Police Cadet J.D. Spencer, son of Mr. & Mrs. C.L. Spencer, is graduated from the Houston Police Academy Monday after having completed 16 weeks of academic and physical training.

Spencer will receive an assignment in one of the fields of law enforcement offered by the Houston Police Department.

Second Ave., Corsicana, has completed his U.S. Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., for training in the armament systems field. Robertson, a 1968 graduate of Corsicana High School, attended the University of Texas at Arlington.

More Stenos Use It

Gregg shorthand, introduced by John Robert Gregg in 1888, is taught in more schools and practiced by more stenographers in the United States than any other note-taking system, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Anne Bonney was an 18th century pirate who terrorized the coast of Jamaica. After her capture, she escaped hanging by claiming to be pregnant.

★★★ Aunt Louise ★★★

Thousands of 'Ole Time Sayings have been quoted in this column the past few years. Today one means a lot to me—THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME. SMILE.

Not that my children didn't do their best to make my visit in Austin pleasant, they did. But it seemed the trip was ill fated. Lady Luck just wasn't with me. It rained almost every day, at least in the south part of Austin where Mike lives. I didn't get to go fishing—didn't even wet a hook. Too, all of them work, their hours were irregular and I wasn't gaining the weight I was supposed to— So here I am.

Pat took off from work and is spending this week with me. He is a great cook and companion. Since last Monday I've gained five pounds. Hurrah!

Guess who called me Monday night? You'd never guess. Bill Callahan. Am sure many of you remember Bill and Joe as a comedy team. The twins father worked with them for years. Bill said that Joe died about six months ago. The trooper that Bill is he is "carrying on" as a single act.

Bill Baldwin, my favorite fiddler and all around Country-Western entertainer, and I had talked earlier in the year about putting on a show for a worthy charity. Bill Callahan said, "Don't do it unless you call me."

Gee, I just have to get back to work pretty soon. How come You 'All let it get so hot?

Thanks for your inquiries and concern. Still LUV you.

See you very soon.

Local Teacher Can't Join Social Security Alone

By DAVID M. HELMER
Branch Manager
Social Security Office

Q. I'm 63 and I'm getting married in 2 months to a man who's getting monthly disability checks from social security. Does this mean I'll also receive a check as his wife after we get married?

A. Probably, but not immediately. A woman usually must wait 1 year after her marriage to become entitled to wife's checks.

Q. Is everyone who gets monthly social security payments eligible for Medicare?

A. No. You must be 65. If you're 65 or over and are entitled to monthly social security benfits, you are automatically eligible for Medicare's hospital insurance. Almost everyone now reaching 65 can sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare.

Q. My father, age 81, recently spent 120 days in a hospital. His bill was $1,598.00 after Medicare. How come? I thought Medicare paid all the expenses.

A. Your father's hospital stay was a very lengthy one. Initially, he was responsible for the first $68 of the bill (deductible). Then after 60 days of full coverage, his Medicare benefits became limited. From the 61st through the 90th day of a hospital stay, a patient is responsible for $17 a day. If he chooses to use his 60-day lifetime reserve after the 90th day, he is responsible for $34 a day of his hospital bill. Your father's part of the bill was therefore 30 days at $17 a day and 30 days at $34 a day, plus the initial $68 deductible.

RONNIE YORK
...'Roughing it'

CHS Senior Studying In Hawaii

Ronnie York, 17-year-old senior-to-be at Corsicana High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe York of 2020 Mimosa Drive and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. (Joe) York of 400 North 37th St., is studying marine biology this summer. And—where else?—at the Swope Summer School on the island of Kauai in the Hawaiian Islands.

The school offers a number of academic courses in such areas as mathematics, history, various sciences, and art, and is operated by Americans Aileen and Tom Swope. It has been attended by a number of Corsicana area students. Ronnie is working in marine biology to decide whether he wants to specialize in it at college.

He'll probably attend NJC before going on to a senior college.

And he'll probably be spending a lot of time in the air after he gets home the last of this month. He just got his pilot's license June 17, the day before he flew—by commercial airliner—to Kauai.
